(2) If no candidate wins more than 50% of the valid cast votes in the election, a runoff election shall be held between the two most-voted candidates within 2 weeks after the announcement of the election results. The candidate receiving the most valid cast votes in the runoff election shall be declared elected.
(3) The most voted candidate in accordance with Article (160) of the Constitution shall assume his duties thirty days after the result of the election has been proclaimed.
(4) In case of death of one of the candidates during the first or second round of polling or after elections and before announcement of the results, then new elections will be held according to the provisions of law.

Chapter VI
Parliamentary Elections

Part I Wolesi Jirga

Number of Seats:
Article 18. There shall be 249 seats in the Wolesi Jirga allocated among the provinces in proportion to their population.
Allocation of Provincial Seats:

Article 19.
(1) At least 90 days prior to each election, the Central Statistic Office will provide the official population figures or estimates for each province to the IEC.
(2) The IEC shall allocate seats among the provinces as follows:
   a. The total population of the provinces to be allocated seats is divided by the number of seats to be allocated (249) to obtain the seat allocation quota.
   b. The population of each province is divided by the seat allocation quota. The result shall be the number of seats allocated to each province.

   If the result of these calculations leads to any provinces initially being allocated less than two seats, those provinces should be allocated two seats. The seats, which are not allocated by this method, their allocation will be done according to their large decimal remainders.
   c. The procedures and mathematical formulas for making the calculations in a. and b shall be published in regulations by the IEC.

Candidates:

Article 20.
(1) Candidates can nominate themselves in each constituency (province or district).
(2) Candidates shall not:
   a) Pursue objectives that are opposed to the principles of the holy religion of Islam and the word and spirit of the Constitution;
   b) Use force, or threaten with, or propagate the use of, force;
   c) Incite ethnic, linguistic, regional or religious tension and discrimination;
   d) Create a real danger to the rights or freedoms of individuals or intentionally disrupt public order and security;
   e) Have non-official military forces or be part of them;
   f) Receive funds from foreign sources
   g) Receive funds from internal illegal sources
(3) Candidates must pay fees and present the copies of voter registration cards according to article (44) of this law.
(4) Political parties registered may nominate a number of candidates in each province up to 100% of the seats to be filled in that province.

Candidate Eligibility:

Article 21
(1) The Independent Electoral Commission shall verify that candidates to the Wolesi Jirga fulfill the conditions of eligibility established in Article 85 of the Constitution and in this law.
(2) Candidates shall not be eligible to stand for election in more than one constituency.
(3) Political party candidates who are found ineligible by the IEC may be replaced by their political parties at any time up to the nomination deadline.
Awarding of Provincial Seats to Candidates:

Article 22
(1) Subject to the provisions of sub article 2 in article 19 of this law, provincial seats are awarded to candidates according to the number of votes obtained.
(2) The most voted candidates will be awarded seats in each province.
(3) No candidate shall be allocated more than one seat.
(4) If a candidate is not able to take his/her seat, or if such candidate abandons that seat during the Wolesi Jirga term for any reason, the seat will belong to the next most voted candidate of the same gender.

Allocation of Seats to Female Candidates:

Article 23
(1) The IEC will set procedures and a formula, based on the population of each province, for defining a minimum number of female candidates that will be elected in each province in order to meet the requirement of article 83 of the Constitution by which the number of female candidates must be at least twice the number of existing provinces.
(2) The most voted female candidates in each constituency will be allocated seats in accordance with the formula in sub-paragraph (1). After the quota requirements have been met the remaining seats will be allocated in accordance with article 22 of this law.
(3) In the provinces in which there is only two seats allocated one seat will be awarded to the most voted female candidate. The remaining seat will be awarded to the most voted candidate regardless of his/her gender.

Part II
Meshrano Jirga

Composition of the Meshrano Jirga:

Article 24
The number of Meshrano Jirga members shall be thrice the number of existing provinces. One third of them will be appointed by provincial councils, one third of them by district councils and the remaining one third by the president.

Election of Provincial Representatives:

Article 25.
(1) Within 15 days after its installation, each provincial council will in a secret election elect one of its members to a seat in the Meshrano Jirga for a period of four years.
(2) The election will be presided over by the council chairman, if that person is not a candidate for election to the Meshrano Jirga. If the chairman is a candidate, the deputy chairman will preside over the election. If the deputy chairman is also a candidate, the eldest member who is not a candidate shall preside over this election.
(3) Election is by absolute majority among the council members present. If no candidate receives more than half the votes in the first round, run-offs must be conducted between the candidates with the two highest vote totals until one member receives a majority of the votes.
(4) If the elected member of the Meshrano Jirga abandons the seat prior to the end of the term, according to clause (3) of this Article, a new Member shall be elected in the same way from among the current members of the provincial council for the remainder of the term.
Election of District Councils Representatives for Meshrano Jirga:

Article 26.
(1) Within 5 days of the installation of the district councils, the IEC shall provide each provincial council with a list of the individuals elected to the district councils in their respective province. The members of the district councils in each province shall elect one from among their members to seat in the Meshrano Jirga for a three-year period.

(2) The chairman of the provincial council is responsible for convening members of the district councils in the province for an election within 15 days of the installation of the district councils. The meeting shall take place at a venue which is as accessible as possible for all members of the district councils in the province.

(3) At least two third of the members of the district councils must participate for the election to be valid.

(4) Election is by absolute majority among the council members present. If no candidate receives more than half the votes, run-offs must be conducted between the two candidates with the highest vote totals in the first round until one member receives a majority of the votes.

(5) If the elected member of the district councils for Meshrano Jirga abandons the seat prior to the end of the term, a new Member shall be elected according to the sub-article (4) of this article from among the current members of the district councils for the remainder of the term.

(6) The IEC shall confirm, according to Article 85 of the Constitution, the eligibility of individuals elected by district and provincial councils. If it is proven that according to Article 85 of the Constitution a candidate is not eligible, the IEC will ask the respective district and provincial councils to elect another member.

Appointment of Individuals to the Meshrano Jirga:

Article 27.
(1) Within two weeks after the presidential inauguration, the President shall invite civic organisations, political parties, and the public to nominate individuals to be appointed to the Meshrano Jirga in accordance with Article 84 (3) of the Constitution. The nomination period shall remain open for one week.

(2) No more than seven days following the close of nominations, the Office of the President shall forward to the IEC nomination papers in conformity with clause (1) of this article for those individuals it intends to appoint.

(3) The IEC shall verify the eligibility of those individuals, according to clause (2) of this Article and shall advise the Office of the President no later than seven days following receipt of the nominations.

Article 57

1) Complaints regarding voting procedures raised at the polling station should be resolved unanimously by the polling station committee in question. If unanimity cannot be reached the two-third majority decision prevails.

2) Complaints regarding counting and results of presidential and national assembly elections should be raised at the time when the counting is done, or the results are being announced. If the complaint is not resolved by the corresponding authority by unanimity, then an appeal can be made to the Provincial Electoral authority within 48 hours after the counting of election results. The Provincial Electoral authority should resolve the matter within 3 days from receiving the complaint. An appeal can also be made within the next 48 hours before the IEC, who shall resolve the matter within 7 days of receiving the complaint. The decision of the Independent Electoral Commission is final and binding.
